Between Us

Had you seen the girls' military unit of the High School, you would have been thrilled as they paraded Tuesday morning. Taking orders just as real soldiers, and standing so erect, all attention. These girls have been organized since fall and in this time have made quite a bit of progress in their work. Speaking of soldiers, the past week another mother was made very happy when the mail came from Mexico and brought such a lovely Mexican pin to Mrs. Hudson Wilson. Her son, Rufus, has been stationed in Del Rio, Texas, which is right on the border; so when he made his trip into Mexico he picked out a lovely white pin in the shape of a flower and sent it to her. For the past several weeks the Lions Club has been working on a minster show. If you remember, it's been many years since the town has had the opportunity to see a really good show. Last year the Bachelors' Club had a very successful minster, but this show will be all our own local men, and they are hard at work on the show. It's always good to see James Brett, and the time, even though he was only home for a few days, his friends were busy trying to get in a word with him. If you remember, he arrived in the city, he tried very hard to make his father know it was him on the way to the airport, but after circling over his house for several times and failing to see him, he was quite a welcome visitor walking into the house, announced. James is located in San Antonio, Texas, after being quite a hero in one of the battles of the Pacific. The dog and flower show is in full bloom now, and so many yards are beautiful. The Fred Lanier yard is always so pretty, but especially at this time of the year. The Japanese peach in the J. L. Johnson yard is in full bloom now and worth seeing. One of the doctors who lives in a neighborhood where there are many children was called to the door by a gentle rap, and his surprise when he opened the door to find all the children in the neighborhood, numbering about twelve, with a lot of flowers and a big cake—their gift to him on Doctors' Day. Be on the lookout Thursday for various flowers and a big cake. The seniors in all their Dr. Day dress. We are hoping they will parade over town and let us see them. Don't forget your ticket to the Lion minstrel, and you are not only assured a good show but are helping out a good cause, too.

Carr-Buncle Pains

By KERMIT R. CARR

What rationing does to some of our minds is about equivalent to tying one's hands up just before a boxing match.

There is a religious song entitled "Count Your Many Blessings, Name Them One by One." Our local grocer says there is no connection between counting your blessings and counting food ration stamps.

When you complain about the sacrifices you have to make, just think for a moment what even a bath tub would look like to one of our boys in North Africa.

Tongue is one meat that is definitely not being rationed.

Honest criticism gives aid AND discomfort to government officials.

Once upon a time there was a family that had pineapple pudding for dinner and afterwards they all went for a ride in the country.

When the war is over the world will remember the struggle we put up, including the struggle some individuals are having with their victory gardens.

Buy a war band, and give one of our fighting men a gun; cash it in tomorrow and take the gun away from the many when he needs it most.

On All Battlefronts

(By the Office of War Information)

Axis Retreat at Tunisia

The German Afrika Korps, retreating on the Tunisia coast toward the Tunis-Bizerte triangle, has been playing a series of "delaying" actions. Having made a safe exit through the Gabes bottleneck before the American and British armies could effect a junction, Rommel last week turned to make a stand at prepared positions north of Outef. Attacking allied forces found their advance hindered by mine fields laid to cover the Axis retreat.

According to OWI Director Elmer Davis, Rommel's withdrawal from the Mareth Line was made under cover of a sandstorm, which saved Rommel from devastating air pounding the Allies had prepared to inflict on him and allowed him to get out with most of his material intact. As a consequence, the Afrika Korps will now be in a position to fight a good delaying action, Mr. Davis said, and the more delaying actions it can fight, the longer it will postpone "the eventual invasion of Europe."

Reports of Axis losses so far are incomplete, but Secretary of War Stimson said the Axis had lost large numbers of Germans and Italians killed, several thousands made war prisoners, and large quantities of guns, tanks and vehicles. He said several American divisions are on the front, to take part in the expulsion of the Axis from North Africa, and predicted that before the final phase of the campaign is over there will probably be a great deal of fighting.

Eighth Army Success

Allied success at the Mareth Line—forcing Rommel to abandon his defense system and flee to the north—was attributed, by both Director Davis and Secretary Stimson, to the Eighth Army strategy of sending a flanking force to the rear of Rommel's troops.

All week allied air forces have been harassing the retreating enemy columns, and a cordon of British, American and French troops continue to press the Axis forces into an ever-narrowing area in Eastern Tunisia. Rommel apparently is trying for a union with Axis forces in North Africa under Col. Gen. Von Arnim.

Reports From the Pacific

The recent conference held in Washington between high commanders from the Pacific combat theaters and the U. S. chiefs of staff brought out valuable first-hand reports of developments in the Pacific. There is evidence, Secretary of Stimson said, that Japan is augmenting her front line strength in Burma, China and the Southwest Pacific.

Key Says Jitterbugs

"A note of a musical nature arrived this week from 'Sons Origin,' which will be found of interest to the friends of young Lambuth Key, who wrote the note. Lambuth, let it be explained, is a son of Mrs. Ora Seabrook Key and the late W. F. Key. For the past several years the young man and his brother, Albert, have been popular in the young social and religious circles. Almost every Sunday one saw them with a group of their own age in the Sunday school classes; in the week days they were seen—and heard—in musical areas, both making what has recently come to be classed as music in the live social circles. And this much is said by way of paying the way for the fragment of the letter below received this week (not intended for publication) from Lambuth, now in the navy.

"D March, 1943, 'South America.

"Dear Mr. Turner:

"I have received two copies of the Times since I've been here and have enjoyed them very much. Especially this last issue with A. M. Seligman's account of his experiences in England. I shall not attempt to give an account of my own experiences, as they are not so varied and are far less interesting, however, it was my privilege to see and enjoy the annual carnival of Brazil. In this great festival of joy all the arts and national traditions play their parts, but it is undoubtedly the music which takes the principal role. The music reveals a complex mixture of traditions, but the Negro influence dominates. Frenzied dancing is also the main feature of the carnival. If you think our American 'jitterbugs' are contortions, you should witness the spectacles here. These people are 'crazy.' The whole of it was a very gay affair, and we all enjoyed it immensely.

"W. L. KEY, RM 31."

What's 'Black Market'?

IN MODERN educational methods there are audio-visual facilities for the benefit of less intellectual students who must both see and hear the lesson which it is sought to teach. Personally, we have recognized the need for something of this sort to enable us to better understand some of the words we are hearing in recent days.

For instance, that word "black market" has only had a vague significance. We get the impression that it refers to selling commodities in contravention of attempted restrictions and at unreasonably high prices, but we have wondered why it was called "black." Then there came along the audio-visual. One of our former friends came to the office Saturday afternoon with three nice, tender fryers. We were afraid to ask the price, lest we'd decide we didn't want them, but on a bold venture we asked and were pleased. Can you have three fryers for so much per pound, he told us, and the total was $2.47 1/2. That didn't seem so black. The three squawking feathered friends were placed in the pen in the back yard some time before night. We dreamed of fried chicken for breakfast; thought we might have the preacher for dinner (if he came anyhow), and we had decided war was not so bad after all.

Dawn came. Tracks led through the back yard to the pen in which the three fryers had been secreted. The door of the pen was open; one lone chicken was in sight; two others had "gone with the wind." In the blackness of the night somebody had brought us an audio-visual lesson on the meaning of "black market." Fryers are mighty high at $2.47 1/2 each.

Traveling In Circles

ACCORDING to the first meager story of creation, Adam and Eve were discovered in a garden under a spreading fig tree which gave them shelter and food; then they developed the idea that one thing more was needed and they each made themselves some simple wearing apparel. There hasn't been much light thrown on the details of management, but it is safe to assume that it was Eve who sought the adornment—or maybe, the merely wanted Adam to get a pair of pants so the could wear them when he most needed them, or give them to the occasional tramp who came her way.

And this brings us back to the thought that clothing, food and shelter has been the important problem since the days of Adam and Eve. Likewise society revolves within limited circles, never getting far from the starting point.

In our news columns last week under the heading "Forty Years Ago" there was carried the refreshing information that the city administration had forbidden the presence of hogs within the city limits under the space of at least an eighth of an acre for freedom of action. Everybody liked pork and sausage, but nobody wanted to smell a hog pen. But we are coming down off that high perch—everybody is getting tolerant of hogs. If this point system goes much further, we shall expect the socially elite of Statesboro—at the Missionary Society and the Woman's Club—to petition council for the right for every family to raise at least one small hog in every parlor. Hogs are going to be mighty popular right soon.

The marriage of Miss Annie Jo Cobb, to Thomas Andrew (Billy) Cochran was solemnized Saturday, March 27th, at 6:00 o'clock at the home of the bride, Edna J. Walter Hendricks, of Savannah, great-uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony.

A profusion of southern smilax interspersed with white gladioli and carnations was banked around the mantel dropping to the floor, and on either side were huge baskets of white gladioli before which the ceremony was performed, and arrangements of gladioli and carnations were used throughout the home.

The bride's maids were Misses Betty Jo Edge, of Lafayette, and Miss Mary Lois Rhodes, of Canton. Miss Edge wore powder blue crepe with heavy accessories, while Miss Rhodes wore pink with white accessories. Both wore white carnation corsages.

The Peanut PATROL

is helping WIN THE WAR!

Make Every Acre of Peanuts COUNT IN 1943

The need for oil and food and feed is giving the peanut crop a new place in the nation. To make the crop of most service, good yields per acre and increased acreage must be combined.

Proper soil selection, good stands, plant food, grass and insect control, and harvesting at the right time are major production problems. The Georgia Agricultural Extension Service makes the following suggestions:

— Plant on sandy loam or sandy clay loam soils. Rocky fields, heavy clays and poorly-drained areas should be avoided.

— Soils should be thoroughly broken and harrowed into a good seed bed, with as little surface vegetation as possible. Keep grass killed and harrow or plow land just before planting.

— Peanuts following well-fertilized crops need little or no extra fertilizer. Otherwise use 200 to 300 pounds of an 0-14-10, 2-12-6, or the same amount of 18 per cent superphosphate and 40 to 50 pounds of muriate of potash or their equivalent. Use lime if soil is acid.

— Spanish, North Carolina runners, and Virginia bunched and Virginia bunch are varieties used.

— Use clear, bright, well-filled out, disease-free seed. Hand-shelled seed are best for all varieties. North Carolina runners and North Carolina and Virginia bunch seed should always be hand-shelled.

— Treat seed with Arasan, 2 per cent Ceresan, or Spurgon. It pays.

— In South Georgia, plant first part of April, and in North Georgia the last part of the month.

— Plant Spanish in 24- to 30-inch rows and 4 to 6 inches apart in rows, and North Carolina runners in 30- to 42-inch rows and 8 to 12 inches apart in rows.

— Cultivate frequently from time plants come up until they cover a good portion of the ground. Do not cultivate or hoe close to plant after pegs begin to form.

— Dust with sulphur when leaf spots appear.

— Harvest when foliage begins to show a general yellowish maturity color; the roots are well formed, and the inside of shells show darkened veins.

For further information on cultural practices, see the County Agent.

PRIVATE PEANUT has gone to war! He has been assigned one of war's most vital jobs — production of vegetable oil. Southern farmers this year must plant 5,500,000 acres of peanuts for harvest. That's a million acres more than in '42 and two and a half times 1941 production.

The reason. Before the war, America produced nine billion pounds of fats and oils annually. War has cut off a billion pounds heretofore imported. Military demands and lend-lease aid have added another two billion pounds to our requirements. Thus, we must produce 12 billion pounds this year.

In Georgia, farmers have been asked to produce 1,450,000 acres of peanuts — about 26 per cent of the nation's goal. Since Georgia is the leading peanut-producing state, we have been given the major role in helping to meet the unprecedented war-born need for more vegetable oil.

KNOW WHY Peanuts Are Essential to War Effort

Here's why we must have greater peanut production for war:

PEANUTS, important for their concentrated food value, are invaluable in the production of nutritious food for fighting men.

PEANUT OIL goes into the production of vegetable shortening, salad oil, and oleomargarine. Not only is it rich in nutritive value, but its high smoking point makes it especially adaptable for cooking on submarines.

PEANUT OIL can be used to make explosives for shells and bombs, anti-freeze and cooling fluids for fighting planes, special lubricants for highspeed motors, and paints and varnishes for protective coatings for ships, tanks, planes, and guns.

PEANUT MEAL is fed to poultry and livestock, and thus helps to increase production of meat, milk, and eggs — all high-class fighting foods.

"FIGHTING PEANUTS" Will Help Win the War!

This county has been assigned a peanut production goal. To reach it, every farmer must do his part. Are you doing yours? Growing and harvesting peanuts is not only patriotic; it's also good business. Under the U. S. Department of Agriculture's new streamlined, one-price program this year, you are assured an average price of not less than about $130 a ton. With average yields, that's a return of about $50 an acre. In addition, you are assured of a cash market at your county seat. Seed are available in plenty, and there is still time to plant peanuts. See the county AAA office or one of the undersigned, or your community AAA committeeman for more information.

Remember, Uncle Sam is counting on you to produce peanuts to help lick the enemies of Freedom and Democracy.

Bulloch County's Peanut Production Goal is 22,580 acres. Let's get together and get it!

Rural Electric Service Is an Old Story In Georgia

RURAL electric service is not a new thing in Georgia. On the contrary, large numbers of the small communities and individual farms in the area served by this Company have had the advantages of rural electrification for the last ten years, or even longer in many instances.

The Georgia Power Company is the pioneer in rural electrification in our state. Back in 1927, this Company announced a program to extend electric service to the farms. That was before anybody else had done anything about it or had tried to do anything.

From 1928 to the end of 1941 we had built more than 4,500 miles of rural electric lines, serving more than 61,000 customers. War necessarily cut short our program. Nevertheless, the rural lines built by this Company in thirteen years represent a big accomplishment. If placed end to end, these lines would stretch all the way across the nation, from Savannah to Los Angeles. And there would be enough lines left over to reach from Tifton to New York. Rural electrification is one of Georgia's great assets and this Company is proud of the progress already made.

Building rural lines is not our only concern with agriculture. Over a long period of years we have helped to promote many movements designed to increase farmers' income, to improve the soil, and to stimulate home production of food. The wartime crisis in food supplies makes our interest greater now than ever before.
